

Range Break:

The Range Break is a Setup where the stock has a period of time where buyer and sellers are fighting for control. This setup occurs when one side overwhelms the other and we have a clear winner. We will look to join the winning side as there will often be continued momentum. This differs from the Gap & Go since participants won't always be aggressive but a clear trend should develop as long as the range break holds.

Best types of trades for this setup:

- Momentum
- Trend continuation
- Pullbacks
